CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA, CAL.

Vol. IX, No. 10

Carpenter Street Closing Based on Planners' Report

In this issue of the Pine Cone is published for the first time the official notice of public work, having to do with the closing of a part of Carpenter street.

We publish herewith the report of the planning commission, upon which the city board of trustees based its action in the resolve to close the thoroughfare, and which called forth the protest published in last week's issue.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Trustees on February 6, 1923, there was referred to the City Planning Commission and to the City Attorney the request of Mr. Paul Flanders that the city sell to him the street adjoining his property, Block 105, Addition No. 5.

The City Planning Commission at their regular monthly meeting on February 7th considered the question referred to them by the trustees, and

1. Voted that Carpenter street, south of Mountain View avenue, as located on the city map, is not a practicable road, and might well be discontinued.

2. Voted that the best road connections with the territory south and east of the boundary lines of Carmel at its southeast corner would be by an extension of Eleventh avenue and Mountain View avenue.

3. Voted: In the opinion of the City Planning Commission and City Attorney it would be advisable to obtain from Mr. Paul Flanders a right of way for the extensions of Mountain View avenue to the east boundary line of the city and a right of way for the extension of Eleventh avenue to the south boundary line of the city; also that it would be advisable to sell the city property included within the street boundary of Carpenter street between Mountain View avenue and the southern boundary line of the city.

4. Voted that it would be advisable to accept Mr. Paul Flanders' offer of water rights of way and power rights of way across his property when conduits and pipes are placed under ground.

The City Planning Commission unanimously recommends the above opinions.

Jessie Arms Botke,
Secretary

Abstract and Title Firm Established Here

A new concern which will supply a long-felt want has been established here. Heretofore it has been necessary to make a trip to Salinas to examine titles and issue certificates having to do with Carmel property, but the newly organized Carmel Abstract & Title Co., under the management of Argyll Campbell, will in future be prepared to handle titles and abstracts of property in the Carmel district.

This will prove a great convenience and the new concern will no doubt develop a profitable business.

War Song of the Saracens

A Poem from James Elroy Flecker's Play, "Hassan"

WE are they who come faster than fate:
We are they who ride early on the
We storm at your ivory gate:
Pale Kings of the Sunset, beware!
Not on silk nor in samet we lie,
Not in curtained solemnity die
Among women who chatter and cry,
And children who mumble a prayer.
But we sleep by the ropes of the camp,
And we rise with a shout, and we tramp
With the sun or the moon for a lamp,
And the spray of the wind in our hair.

FROM the lands where the elephants are,
To the forts of Merou and Balghar,
Our steel we have brought and our star
To shine on the ruins of Rum.
We have marched from the Indus to Spain,
And by God we will go there again;
We have stood on the shore of the plain
Where the Waters of Destiny boom.
A mart of destruction we made.
At Jalula, where men were afraid,
For death was a difficult trade,
And the sword was a broker of doom.

AND the Spear was a Desert Physician
Who cured not a few of ambition,
And drave not a few to perdition
With medicine bitter and strong;
And the shield was a grief to the fool
And as bright as a desolate pool,
And as straight as the rock of Stamboul
When the cavalry thundered along:
For the coward was drowned with the brave
When our battle sheered up like a wave,
And the dead to the desert we gave,
And the glory to God in our song.

Family Club of San Francisco Will Play Golf on Local Links

The Family Club of San Francisco will hold a golf tournament at Del Monte and Pebble Beach on Saturday and Sunday, April 21st and 22nd. Several Carmel residents are members of this organization, among them Fenton P. Foster, Robert W. Ritchie and Phil K. Gordon.

The Del Monte Properties Co will make an unusual effort to entertain the members. The program includes a visit to Carmel.

A number of the members are artists, writers and musicians. The father of the club is J. A. Talbot, and in the family are Eddie O'Day, Col. J. W. Dorsey, J. J. Tynan, Dr. Charles McGettigan, Sam Hall, Edward H. Hamilton, Louis Sloss, and over a hundred others.

Monterey County Humane Society Meets in Monterey

As a preliminary to the drive for membership during the humanity for animals week, Mrs. Louise Dobbins entertained the officers and members of the Monterey county humane society and the Carmel society on Monday last at her home in Monterey. She is secretary of the county organization, Mrs. Charles Kiernan, treasurer, and Miss Maria Antonia Field, chairman. About fifteen members attended, including Miss Louise Conger, chairman of the Carmel branch.

Mrs. Dobbins emphasized the fact that the society is for protection of children as well as quadrupeds. This angle leads the members into greater responsibilities of community interest than merely those to persecuted and neglected dumb brutes.

Costumes, Mechanical Detail and Makeup for Forest Theater Play

By Susan Porter

"Lightly one reads a little song,
And all the dreaming goes
To make a ditty twelve lines long,
Nobody knows."

So a poet grumbled once. And so, with more reason might those concerned in a production grumble about the audience who will accept and criticize the play without knowing all the dreaming and all the hard that go to make it. They might grumble, I say, but as a matter of fact they don't. For they are working so hard and caring so much about what they are doing that they are really having a very good time.

The work for "Hassan" is well blocked out by now, and down in Mrs. Botke's studio behind the acacias are the color sketches for the costumes. There is an interesting and simple color symbolism in them for those who care to follow it. Hassan, the dreamer, is garbed throughout in dark and dreamy blue, while the poet Yshak, who laughs at him yet sympathizes, wears his blue with a difference—a green-blue. The Caliph in the divan scene wears the purple and red of splendor and tyranny, while in the friendly scene with Hassan in the garden his cruel red is partly hidden under lavender and gold. Pervaneh, the noble mystical captive woman, is draped in blue-lavender, while the light and heartless Yasmin flames in yellow and orange or hard red. The Chinese philosopher is in yellow-ochre, the color of contemplation; the Dervish comber in earth-color and dull blue; the figure of the executioner always in ominous black.

Generally speaking, the effect will be of long sweeps and masses of color with avoidance of details, the backgrounds plain to throw out the color of the moving figures. "Color against plain walls—that's what makes the Orient sing," said Mrs. Botke.

The costumes will be in the hands of Rhoda Johnson, whose generous giving of her skill and her time has enriched many a Carmel production within the last year. Her costumes for "Inchling," "The Shepherds' Bridge," "Spreading the News" and "High Justice" are well remembered. Mrs. Johnson has always been interested in costuming, especially in its historic aspect, enjoying the reference work which makes accurate and concrete her own vision. "But I couldn't do it," says she, "without Helena Conger's help." Miss Conger is blessed with an eye and a hand and the great gift of enthusiasm. "Had you ever done costuming before you came here?" we asked. And her answer was memorable—"Never, but till you come to Carmel you don't know what you can do."

Hobart Glassell, on the other hand, had discovered his gift for make-up long before he came to us. When pressed to tell when and in what places he had made people up, he gave us, with a reminiscent gleam in his eyes, the data which we offer without a word to mar its simple grandeur:

1909—First experience, with "The College Mascot," Los Angeles.

1911-14—British Association plays, Punta Arenas, Chili.

1914-15—With Max Gluckstein productions (movies), Buenos Ayres, Argentine.

1916—Royal Army Medical Corps Review, London, England.

1918—La Valle Bonne, France.

1919—Coblentz, Germany.

Dick Johnson was next door, so we dropped in to ask him his experience in lighting. He gave us a cheerful smile, but disclaimed experience. "Did it for school plays at Exeter only—always thought it was fun. Say, I'm Lewis

BOOKS AND AUTHORS

How the Human Mind Functions

A timely book is Hallam-Hawkesworth's "The Workshop of the Mind." At a period when psychology has become a popular subject as it never has been before, when the question-how men think is beginning to enter into every sort of consideration and project, this book provides for older children a simple, vivid, picturesque and readable introduction to the processes of the mind. Presented in a simple and a fascinating manner primarily designed to interest young people, it has proved to be a book that adults also find both enticing and valuable. Numerous anecdotes of the mental habits of great men are an especially entertaining feature, and explanations of the physical facts and psychic activities of the brain are accompanied by well-founded, rational suggestions for managing these to the end of maximum happiness and use.

Flammarion's Best Work—Perhaps

With the publication of "After Death" the trilogy is complete in which M. Camille Flammarion, under the general title, "Death and Its Mystery," discusses the whole subject of a psychic life independent of the material body, and the survival of personality after physical death. He has divided his really monumental work into three portions, a volume to each phase of the subject. The first, "Before Death," studies the possibility and the fact of psychic action during the life of the body which is apparently independent of the body—telepathy, clairvoyance, fore-knowledge of events, etc. The second, "At the Moment of Death," takes up the instances of intensified and super-material psychic activity at the very time of bodily dissolution. "After Death," the third and last volume, discusses an immense quantity of carefully examined evidence of various kinds bearing on a psychic and a personal life after death. The volumes are uniform in style and price, and obtainable singly or as a set. M. Flammarion is said to have declared this his greatest work.

Monterey Native Writes Romantic Tale

The author of "Guadalupe," an historical glimpse of the Aztecs, and of "La Paloma," a three-act drama of California, Albert Leon Van Houtte, sometimes a sojourner in Carmel, has written a new book under the title of "The Bells of El Carmelo."

The setting of this story is in California's most romantic spot, the vale of El Carmelo, near the old pueblo of Monterey, the first capital of the state. The scenes are surfeited with the beauty of poppy fields, cerritos covered with manzanita and chaparral, while the languorous atmosphere of the Missions permeates the love tale during its development. The story is replete with glimpses of dons and donnas of yesterday; fiesta scenes where mingle the caballeros and dark-eyed senoritas of Spanish California; scenes of historic days that preceded California's birth as a state. The work is embellished throughout with many beautiful photographs, made by Louis S. Slevin, of scenes in and about the locale of the story.

Van Houtte was born in Monterey. He is known as an author, playwright, scenarist, dramatic and academic instructor, and a student of our state history. Therefore he is well qualified by love and attainments to write of this romantic section.

Josselyn's man—Friday—and proud of it."

Lewis Josselyn up among his pine trees had some very interesting things to say about the modern theory of lighting as opposed to the old, the modern idea being "to paint with light," as Mr. Kuster always said. He spoke of the greater problems presented by an outdoor production and the thrill of solving them. Each Forest theater is a different problem, "Hassan" a very interesting one. "But the whole point," he said emphatically, "is to make your lighting a part of the whole scheme of things—to subordinate it to the producer's general idea, never to let it detract from the spoken line nor to descend to a trick effect just because it's a good trick. Light is really, you might say, the medium in which a production swims—but you must never forget the production in the medium."

Do you wonder we came home happy under the gray skies that day? It's rather splendid to realize all those people, Jessie Arms Botke, Rhoda Johnson, Helena Conger, Hobart Glassell, Lewis Josselyn and Dick Johnson, all willing to work so hard and so joyously in a big common effort. And of course this only a part. There is the producer's own creative dream and the music and the setting and the dancing and a lot more that is being planned and will be told of soon; more people who are giving their time and their skill and their energy to make possible a lovely and memorable thing, following a thought of beauty along their Golden Road to Samarkand.

Richard Bentinck Flirts With Memory of "Will Shakespeare"

The recent performance of "Will Shakespeare" at Stanford University is thus commented upon by the Palo Alto Times:

"When a play professionally produced in New York receives as much criticism as praise, it is too much to expect that it will be a complete success when given by amateurs on a university stage.

"Clemense Dane's 'Will Shakespeare,' presented at the Stanford Assembly Hall by the English Club, was neither a success nor a failure. It was an interesting experiment. Although the audience was frankly weary by the end of the fourth act—and the fourth hour—it listened respectfully to scenes that consisted chiefly of long poetical dialogue or soliloquy. There was no enthusiasm, except when the curtain rose on the fourth act set, but there was open-minded attention.

"The chief defect of the performance lay in the play itself, and should not be laid at the door of the actors.

"For the charm which the play possessed, the director, Richard Bentinck and his assistants deserve tremendous credit. Unquestionably the settings and stage effects set a new high mark for campus productions. The play of lights was used with rare success and the stage was at all times a thing of aesthetic appeal.

"To Louise Wallis as Mary Fitton, Mariann Hilton as Anne Hathaway, Richard Bentinck as Will Shakespeare and A. D. Cohan as Henslowe, go premier honors."

Last Sunday at Gilroy formation of "The Fill-the-Hole" Club was effected. The membership of this organization is made up of writers for the newspapers in Monterey, Santa Cruz, San Benito and Santa Clara counties, and accredited local writers for outside publications. The meeting was featured by a "feed" at the Hotel Milias, an address by Prof. C. E. Brownell of Gilroy and brief remarks by Rolin G. Watkins of Monterey, A. B. Smith of Pacific Grove, R. Wilson of Watsonville, Messrs. Blake and Kilpatrick of Gilroy and D. H. Townes of Salinas.

The next meeting will be held on Sunday, May 13, on the Monterey Peninsula, and as the Pine Cone man has been delegated to arrange for the display of its charms to the visiting purveyors of publicity, Carmel will probably furnish the setting for the coming feast of reason and flow of soul.

COOPERATIVE COMMUNITY PROMOTION WORK

The directors of the recently formed Monterey Peninsula Inc. wants everyone in this section to know just what this organization stands for, what it proposes to do, when it proposes to do it, and how it proposes to do it.

Let us start with the statement that what Californians Inc. is to Northern California, Monterey Peninsula Inc. is to Carmel, Monterey, Pacific Grove, Seaside, Del Monte, Carmel Highlands, and Pebble Beach.

Both organizations have as their main activity and function the publicity and advertising for the sections they cover.

The preliminary work of the local body is now under way and will continue for six weeks.

At the conclusion of the six-weeks period of education and enlightenment, it is the hope of the directors that so thoroughly will the purposes of the organization be known and appreciated that the means for a continuous and effective campaign of publicity will be provided by those who will reap the harvest.

"TO THE LEAST OF THESE MY BRETHERN"

One of the most hopeful signs in our modern civilization is the fact that more and more interest is being directed toward the lessening of cruelty and neglect to our little brothers in fur and feathers. All over the United States word is being sent out from our pulpits, "Be kind to animals." Many will heed the message; some will not; but all will learn that for the first time in the world's history one week in the year is set apart to encourage every man, woman and child to do some kind and helpful act toward "the least of these their brethern."

If every person would do just one gentle, loving act, if only to place a bowl of water for a thirsty animal, the good resulting therefrom could not be reckoned. It would be like touching a spring that would set the wires of kindness vibrating to the uttermost parts of the earth, sending help to many a forlorn and suffering creature unmeasured distances away. If we but had the vision to know how far our candles of goodness cast their rays, we would make it a habit and not an occasional impulse.

SOME COMFORT IN ADVERSITY

Carmel's post office business has increased greatly in the last reported period, and continuing evidence of growth in local population indicates that the gain in volume of postal business here is to persist further. In view of this condition the announcement that a 33 per cent reduction in the clerk service has been ordered because of the budget limitation on amount of money available for this item is most inopportune and will cause considerable hardship. But the condition is one that was unavoidable, and there are circumstances which, if considered sufficiently, should serve at least to mitigate the hardship and make us patient.

An old axiom says that misery loves company. There may be a modicum of comfort, therefore, in knowing that Carmel is not alone in this postal plight. The order curtailing the service is general, affecting other growing localities as well. Moreover, the reduced service is not to be permanent. The necessity for this extreme economy will end on June 30, the terminating date of the scale period covered by the present budget. It is possible, however, that the order, as it affects this city, may be modified before that date, as strong representations have been sent to Washington.

As the inconvenience is occasioned quite as much by the fact of steady community growth as by the exhaustion of the postal appropriation, we have a permanent cause for gratification that should more than offset the sense of discomfort from the limited period of inconvenience.

Bank Merger Links Fresno to Peninsula

A transaction by which the Bank of Monterey and the Monterey Savings Bank is to merge with the Valley Bank of Fresno, will be consummated in a very short time.

President Thomas J. Field, of the local bank, states that the result of the merger, so far as the Monterey bank is concerned, will be to increase the facilities to Peninsula business interests.

Under the new plan there will be three departments in one bank—commercial, trust and savings. The splendid condition of the bank is set forth in the report published in this issue of the Pine Cone.

Several prominent business men see in the merger a possibility that the new financial combination will be connected rather closely with the Monterey-Fresno railroad project.

James Taylor Acquitted, Faces Second Charge

Following the return of the verdict of not guilty in the trial of James Taylor, suspended county treasurer, who was charged with embezzling funds of the Salinas Union High School district, the board of supervisors passed a new resolution continuing in force its previous resolution suspending him from office.

Taylor's second trial on an indictment charging him with appropriating state forestry funds is set for May 14.

It is probable that by May 1 the recently built concrete addition to the Carmel Garage will be ready for use. "In one door and out the other" will be a great public convenience.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that default having been made in the payment of the reassessments of the several sums due, upon the real property hereinafter described, and assessed thereon for the cost and expenses, additional to those first estimated, of doing the following work, and making the following improvement, in the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, County of Monterey, State of California, to-wit:

Spirit of Criticism Held Up to the Mirror of Analysis

Are You Destructive or Constructive?

Do flowers spring up and bloom because you have passed?
Or, are your tracks but hotbeds of ugly remembrances?

By Elizabeth McClung White

The headline indicates the story.

Right now there is a very special reason in Carmel for blowing away mental fogs. We must strip ourselves of the need of bolstering our conceit; yet we should have the right to walk unprovoked by hurtful things, for neither unwon laurels or un-needed thorns ever held steady a beacon-light for an uncertain faith.

Consider that this life-span is merely a spiritual school-term, with some of us in the kindergarten, others at college, and a vast majority scattered along in between. Have you ever analyzed yourself?—your family?—your friends?—your town?—the important, yet, YOUR OWN EFFECT UPON THEM ALL?

When you have done that honestly, facing the truth, making no excuses for yourself—save the vital one that you should not be expected to function on a plane higher than the one to which your own fight has carried you—your own new comprehension will give you a steadiness and tolerance until then undreamed of by you.

If you don't like the picture you see in your spiritual-mirror you can always close your eyes. And, you can close the door on the skeleton.

However (assuming that we're ready to be honest with ourselves), if your analysis of yourself convicts you of blurred vision, should you not at least refrain from criticising others until you can see clearly?

Do you construct?—or do you destroy? Do you build?—or do you tear down? Do you encourage?—or do you discourage? Or, again, do you merely follow the cheap, tawdry, easy, sheep-way of shifting with public opinion?—thereby losing positiveness in either constructiveness or destructiveness.

Do you—in remembering some superb bit of acting by a woman whose entire lifetime had gone into perfecting her art—rise up and bitterly denounce a woman, say, here among us who is working to show (even if inadequately, it may be) some fine vision of her own?—some part of beauty scarcely outlined in her own mind, yet struggling for birth? Is that constructive?

We may not always feel that we should be content with so small a part of Truth: we may feel that we want the perfect, the greatest materialized ideal of Truth—a Bernhardt of drama—and will not be content with less, yet when we denounce any part of Truth—and one's best is Truth—then we are being unfair to Truth itself.

And, Truth is the only ultimate goal worthy the struggle to reach it. It is the only thing which feeds the lamp within us. It is the only God.

A weed expresses Truth; a rose also expresses Truth, only more beautifully. The evolution of the rose has taught it to express greater sweetness—and it does so with a magnificence of simplicity.

Because of our tinsel-standards, it may be, Nature almost seems to use a selfish reason to push us into an unselfish attitude. It pays to force one's thoughts into desiring good for all, happiness for all, success for all, laurel-wreaths for all, for, when one clears his own mind of envy, jealousy, pride, resentment, he but frees his own path of all obstructing, darkening forces, and thereby enables his own creative-factory to swing clear into vitalizing sunshine. Then, and then only, may his bit be done at his best.

And, in regard to the matter of criticism; it may be said that when a man has grown big enough, clear enough, fine enough to be able to give a criticism he will also have grown too understanding and wise to give a destructive criticism. Therefore, when a man hammers away destructively he but exposes his own great darkness. Criticism is helpful when it is a pruning that eliminates hampering dead and useless branches; it is destructive when it injures the root—or inspiration—of the thing. It is destructive when it takes away with no adequate return.

But it is constructive when it clears the viewpoint so that a man's expression of his evolution may be brought nearer to the perfect, or Truth; when it gives confidence, hope, faith.

Destructiveness and constructiveness cannot occupy the same space at the same time.

You cannot have a bushel-measure filled tight and full of beauty, truth, hope, happiness, inspiration and other lovely things, and also cram into that measure a bushel of destructive things, as, for example, criticisms from a basis of ignorance, intolerance of another's lesser talent, ugly prejudicial comments, spite, spleen, rancor, jealousy, or any of the other emanations from a jaundiced mind.

Which will Carmel have? A bushel of ideals or a bushel of trash, or, just part and part?

We are here because we hope to find something that the rest of the world fails to give. Is there, then, any logical reason for being content with a stingy bit of the great glorious whole of helpful inspiration and mutual comfort when that great force is around about us ready for use?

You don't need to attempt a reformation of the knockers in order to achieve the finest results. It isn't even necessary to reform yourself. Just evolve. Attend to keeping out of your own path all of the discouraging—destructive—things.

If everyone in Carmel who is capable of expressing beauty in dazzling abundance would only get on the job a part of the time (and, just sort of be neutral—if no better—the rest of the time) nothing—absolutely nothing—could stop Carmel from being the greatest creative-lode in all the world.

Incidentally we'd have a wonderful theatre and other wanted things.

Down with destructiveness!

Long live constructiveness!

All together.

Advertising Men Mix Business With Pleasure

The splendid weather which greeted the California Advertising Service association delegates prompted a short, snappy business session last Thursday at Pine Inn. Those fellows were not going to remain indoors with all that sunshine outdoors.

Promptly at 10 o'clock yesterday morning the general meeting was called at Arts and Crafts hall.

The event of the session was a splendid address by Florence J. O'Brien of the Chico Enterprise, on "The Smaller Newspapers and the Advertising Agency."

The session opened with a welcoming address by the editor of the Pine Cone, to which President Alvin Long of San Jose responded in a very happy way.

This morning's session will be devoted to the reading of papers. At noon there will be a luncheon at Point Lobos, and tonight a banquet and dance at Pine Inn.

Northern California to Have Screen Publicity

All last week, under the auspices of Californians Inc., the work of arranging for Monterey Peninsula publicity was under way. In this particular instance a representative of the Castle Film Company traveled over this territory taking motion pictures of views to be shown in two score eastern cities.

Up to Saturday, cameraman Frank T. Lowrey was conducted around by A. C. Heidrick, but on Sunday he worked under the guidance of Dick Johnson and Cal Hogle. To put life into some of the "stills" Brownie Overstreet was pressed into service.

Camp Fire Girls to Give Vaudeville

Pep!

Jazz-z-z!

A frolic of color and music!

That's what the Camp Fire Girls are giving us at their vaudeville show on Friday evening, April 20, in the Arts and Crafts Hall. And the whole thing has been originated, planned and worked out by a group of girls between the ages of 12 and 14, without adult help.

Their originality and power of mimicry has been given free reign, and the show which will be put on next Friday is a fresh interpretation of the New York stage for our village as seen and imagined in the mind of adolescence.

Hence it will be worth going to see. Art and merriment are mixed with genuine girlish enthusiasm that cannot help but entertain.

Costume posters by Moira Wallace are on display at Bagham's.

Christine Burton originated the dances and trained the girls, and Virginia Burton wrote the play, "Snuff," and the dialogue for "How's the Old Top?" Anne Greene as a wicked pirate is a scream, and Lexie Grant as the ghost of an Englishman—well, just come and hear her flow of language!

To set off the burlesque part of the program, there is a lovely Chinese song in costume by Janet Fitch, and an English folk dance in which twelve girls take part.

And the evening ends with a song and dance revue by the prettiest girls in town—nuff sed!

Local Pupils to Walk the Boards

The date for the four one-act plays by Monterey High school students has not been definitely set, it having been planned to give them April 20, but it is thought that this date will have to be changed on account of the track meet the next day.

The plays are under the direction of Dio Dawson and will be given in the high school assembly hall. On account of the lack of facilities for the production of tragedy or serious drama, the plays will be mostly of a humorous nature although the comedy effect will not be gained at the expense of talented acting.

The first play is "Throw Him Out," a farcical comedy in which Carroll Sandholdt and Phyllis Overstreet will play the leads. Plenty of laughs are guaranteed from this one.

"Who's a Coward?" with Billy Hudson and Christine Burton in the main roles, will show the bravery of husband and wife severely tested.

The Treat sisters, Eloy and Marjorie, play the leading parts in "Miss Doulton's Orchids," a comedy, showing the trials and tribulations of a newly married young lady and an affianced girl.

Sir James M. Barrie's play, "Rosalind," has a cast of three persons. Constance Heron, who did well in the plays last year, will play the leading part of Beatrice, an actress; David Prince will appear in the role of an adoring young man and Alice Green will play the other part.

Page Rhoda Johnson

Costumes of men of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries have been found in an ancient burial ground in the southwestern part of Greenland by a Danish scientist. They are the only existing specimens in the world of garments worn in that period. The temperature of the frozen earth for the past 600 years has preserved them from destruction by age and moths. Several wooden crosses found bear inscriptions in the Gothic rune script and are considered to be of great historic value.

A Pattern for Carmel

Under the inspiration and untiring efforts of Gilmor Brown, director of the Pasadena Community Play House, the Community organization is reaching a measure of success rarely known to the so-called Little Theater groups. It is to have a class A, up-to-date home of its own in the very near future.

The play house is to be of the beautiful mission style of architecture. A large patio occupies the center and forms the courtyard. The building is to be a two-story structure that forms an L about the patio. The approach to the theater is by two ways leading from the street up to the arched porticos that overlook the garden.

The building houses every convenience for the Community organization. There will be roomy dressing rooms, an assembly room, studios, rooms for the makers of costumes, a carpenter shop, a shop for the painting of scenery, and a delightful studio tea room.

Oh, for our Carmel Little Theater!

A Dramatic Marathon

Actors and actresses in New York who pride themselves on 100 or 200 nights of continuous performances receive scant consideration from Maria Conesa, Spanish actress, who with a run in Mexico City well launched into its fifth year, has decided to take a vacation and visit the home folks back in Spain.

Miss Conesa has established a record unique in local theatrical circles. Easily the most popular actress who ever trod the boards in the Mexican capital, she has amassed wealth and achieved fame, and when she departed for Spain she was followed to Vera Cruz by a trainload of admirers who showered her with gifts and tearfully entreated her to speed her return.

Pine Needles

Frank Berkay left Carmel last Tuesday, headed in the general direction of Chicago.

Dr. Marion Burke of Palo Alto, is here for a fortnight, and is domiciled in the Fish cottage on Professors' Row.

Henry Cowell, well-known pianist, was here for a day or two this week, the guest of Prof. S. S. Seward and family.

Brief visitors here on their motor trip from Santa Barbara to the north were Mrs. W. Dickerson of Helena, Montana, and Mrs. A. T. Waddell, of Huntington, W. V.

Mrs. Brewer and daughter have moved into their new house at Lincoln and Fourth streets, recently completed by M. J. Murphy.

The election in Monterey on Monday last resulted in the choice of Benjamin F. Wright for mayor and of F. M. Minick and William H. Farlinghy for councilmen.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick R. Becholdt have left on a four-week motor trip through Arizona and New Mexico. Mr. Becholdt is in quest of additional material for his series of "Old West" stories.

Robert Pinkerton and wife, who formerly lived here, were week-end visitors from San Francisco. They came down for the Saturday night dance at Mission Point.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Swain, who now have their home in Palo Alto, where Mr. Swain is with the Chandler car concern, were visitors here last Monday. It is just about a year now since Mrs. Swain, as "Gyp the Blood," took part in our May day celebration.

The polo tournament at Del Monte has brought many prominent people from far-off places to take part in and to witness the sport. Among the most prominent are Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Sydney Fish, Gordon Crokhite, of New York, and E. G. Miller of Pasadena.

Miss Helen Hilliard has taken the position on the Monterey Herald formerly filled by Mrs. Hilda Argo. Mrs. Argo resumes her position as Carmel correspondent and in addition will assist Helen Meuth at La Playa.

The best baseball game of the season in the Abalone League took place last Sunday, when the Van Rippers and the Harrison Godwins played twelve innings, weather permitting, the final and deciding game for championship and dinner the former winning, 6 to 5. Tomorrow will be played between the H. Godwins and the F. Godwins.

At a recent musical and social event in Pasadena, made up of a number of organized parties, that given by Miss Elizabeth Strong was the largest. Miss Strong is well known here and owns a local cottage. In Paris she is known as the Rosa Bonheur of America. Others present who are known here were Miss Champlin, Miss Ada Champlin and Mrs. Mary Burton.

Miss Laura A. Hiensen has moved into her new home on Carmelo and Ninth. It was built by Lewis Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Johnson are visiting Miss Ida A. Johnson at Grey Gables.

Recent guests at the Jeffers home on Mission Point were Mrs. J. R. Pinkham and son. They are from Los Angeles.

Miss Elizabeth Perry of Stockton, staying at Pine Inn, spent a few days with Mrs. M. A. Sampson in Pacific Grove.

Having by this time got settled in their home here, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Williams are spending this week in San Francisco.

The Gottfrieds have moved into their house in Carmel Woods, having rented the Dolores street dwelling to the May family for a year.

Mrs. Frederick Preston Search is in San Francisco with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Flanders, who are leaving soon for the east, to be away some time.

Mrs. Eleanor Stimson went to San Francisco on Wednesday to see her daughter, Mrs. Van Wyck Brooks, and her two grandsons off for the east.

The Sandpiper cottage has as tenants for a brief time Charles Fleming and his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fleming. They are from San Jose.

Ross Hoffman spent a few days here this week locating a cottage for the summer. He and his mother expect to come down from Oakland early next month.

Miss Blanche Wenner, dramatic coach of Broadway high school in Seattle, returned to Carmel this week for a few days' visit with her mother, Mrs. John Scott Noble.

John Jordan of Pine Inn has leased, for a period of five years, the Storie building on Ocean avenue and Dolores street, where are now located the Pine Cone publishing plant and the Palace Drug Store.

With the resumption of business by the Carmel Bakery the proprietors report that in addition to the return of all their local patrons, those from Monterey and Pacific Grove are coming in every day.

Mrs. M. L. Hamlin, assisted by her sister, Mrs. Bevan, and Mrs. Robert W. Ritchie, acted as hostess at the tea for St. Anne's Guild on Wednesday afternoon in her well-appointed suite in the Monte Verde Apartments. Many out-of-town guests availed themselves of the occasion and a neat sum was realized.

Mrs. M. L. Ritchie, wife of Judge Ritchie of the district court of Utah, who has spent two months with Mrs. Henry Wallace, left for her home on Wednesday. While here she was appreciated for her natural gifts, which include the writing of books. In a recent number of Scribner's an article from her pen appeared.

A. & C. Committee Nominates Officers

At the regular meeting of the Carmel Club of Arts and Crafts held last Monday night a list of names was suggested by the nominating committee to be voted upon at the May meeting. The by-laws provide that nominations must be made from the floor, so that the list is merely in the nature of a suggestion.

The list follows: President, Mrs. M. E. Hand; vice President, Dr. H. A. Spoehr; treasurer, J. B. Jordan; corresponding secretary, Dr. Amelia L. Gates; recording secretary, Miss Louise Conger; directors, Dr. A. E. Burton, G. J. Seidenbeck, DeNeale Morgau, and Mrs. E. A. Kluegel.

Half-time Clerk Added to Local Postal Service

"Half a loaf is better than no bread." Postmistress Stella Vincent received advice from Washington on Wednesday morning to the effect that an appropriation had been allowed sufficient to permit of the employment of an extra clerk for half a day every day.

Already Miss Vincent has arranged for the re-employment of Miss Nash. During the absence of Mrs. Grace Wickham on her vacation, Mrs. Theresa Ratliff will be one of the clerks in the office.

The major portion of stock in the Bank of Carmel is now subscribed and it is expected that the subscription list will be closed to the public this coming week. The building will then be put in condition for the opening.
